The Agency for Persons with Disabilities (APD) does not have a systematic methodology, review, or timeframe when setting transportation rates for providers. The rates are arbitrary and have no basis in the actual transportation costs. Reimbursement rates are increased approximately every three years.

The Transportation Disadvantaged Program does have a systematic methodology that is required and submitted annually by each local Community Transit Coordinator for provider reimbursement rates for the subsequent year.

SOLUTION: From funds in Specific Appropriation (HCBS waiver category), the Agency for Persons with Disabilities shall pay uniform rates established in each county by the Commission for Transportation Disadvantaged.
